JACKSONVILLE, ILLINOIS, SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 5, 1905.

GOVERNMENT IS CALLED ON

ASKED TO TAKE CHARGE OF FEVER STRUGGLE

Action Taken at Meeting of City and State Officials and Representative Citizens—Hope to Revive Confidence.

New Orleans, Aug. 4.—Fever report to 6 p. m.:
New cases, 43.
Total to date, 475.
Deaths, 6.
Total deaths to date, 89.

With no intention of admitting the fever situation is beyond control, but in hope of reviving confidence, it was decided to day to request President Roosevelt to have the United States government assume full charge of the struggle now in progress to wipe out yellow fever. The public approves the action taken. Expectation is that within the next two days Surgeon General Wyman, with all the resources of the government, will be enlisted actively in the campaign.

The action was the result of a meeting held to day attended by city officials and state board, Surgeon White of the marine hospital service and a number of representative citizens. It was the concensus of opinion that if government control was resolved upon there would be an immediate restoration of confidence throughout Louisiana and other states where there has been criticism of local authorities for not sooner making public existence of the fever.

Immediately after the meeting a telegram signed by the mayor and other interests represented was addressed to Governor Blanchard telling him of the action taken.

Announcement of the action taken at first created some alarm in the city growing out of the fact that it meant the situation had grown entirely beyond control, but that alarm was allayed when it became known that the authorities had acted simply in the belief that prompt action now in turning over direction of affairs to the marine hospital service, in whom there is supreme confidence here, would almost certainly avert an epidemic.

NOT YELLOW FEVER.

Santiago, Cuba, Aug. 4.—The board of physicians that has had under observation five of the crew of the steamer Athenianin, which arrived here from Colon July 30, has unanimously decided they are suffering from malarial fever and not yellow fever.

TAKES ACTION.

Surgeon General Ordered to Take Charge of the Fever Situation.

Washington, Aug. 4.—President Roosevelt to night forwarded to Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service a telegram from Governor Blanchard of Louisiana requesting the United States government take control of the yellow fever situation in New Orleans. The president directed the surgeon general to take every step in his power to meet the situation in New Orleans and notify him what further action is advisable and possible for the federal authorities to take.

PRECAUTIONS.

East St. Louis, Ill., Aug. 4.—Health and police authorities have established strict precautions to prevent infection from yellow fever, although no absolute quarantine rules have been established. Every train from the south is visited by inspectors and orders have been issued by the board of health that passengers who are apparently in ill health and might be suspected of having yellow fever shall immediately be placed in ambulances and taken to the detention hospital outside of the city limits.

BUSY DAY AT CAIRO.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 4.—To day was a busy one with health inspectors. The towboat Sprague, from New Orleans, arrived this afternoon. It was reported the boat had several cases of yelolw fever on board, but on inspection it was found there was no case of sickness on the boat nor had there been since the boat left New Orleans three weeks ago.

The Cotton Belt railroad brought up a large crowd of refugees this evening, mostly from Arkansas.

The force of inspectors will be increased to morrow by the arrival of several doctors, who have been summoned by Dr. Egan.

VESSELS SEIZED.

New Orleans, Aug. 4.—The flagship Grace of the Mississippi patrol squadron and another vessel, the Tipsey, which had been stationed in Lake Borgne canal, were seized, their flags hauled down and officers and crews placed under arrest. The crew of the Tipsey will be taken to St. Bernard parish, while the crew of the Grace will be brought to this city, both to await action of the grand jury of the respective parishes in which their offenses were committed.

TRAINS DELAYED

Railroad Companies Having Trouble Owing to Strike of Telegraphers.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry in the daprtment of agriculture, who has held that office many years, to day admitted he was a business partner of George E. Howard, of this city, when the gelatine meat label was patented and also when in June, 1901, the first contract for the label was awarded by the department of agriculture. After the first contract was secured from the department Salmon withdrew from his partnership, having, he said, already practically withdrew before that. His interest in the printing establishment then was appraised. Salmon said he had had absolutely no interest in the "meat label" directly or indirectly since July 1, 1901.

Secretary Wilson said to night that Salmon had explained his connection with the printing company substantially as related by the doctor in his conversation with newspapermen. He also said that Howard had come to the department, bringing with him the books of the firm, and showed to him that no one in the department had any connection with the company since Salmon had withdrawn.

Regarding the allegations of favoritism to packing houses in assignment of government meat inspectors, Wilson and Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, to day expressed the opinion there had not been any undue discrimination.

RETURNS MORE INDICTMENTS

MILWAUKEE GRAND JURY KEEPS GRINDING

Charles F. Pfister, One of the City's Prominent Men, in the List—Jury Takes Recess for a Week.

Milwaukee, Aug. 4.—The grand jury returned five more indictments late to day. Among those indicted is Charles F. Pfister, one of Milwaukee's most prominent citizens. The charge against Pfister is that of larceny as bailee in connection with the Wisconsin rendering deal. The indictment alleges that on March 30, 1901, the accused was bailee of a large sum of money, stated to be $14,000, said amount being placed in his hands and deposited with him for the Wisconsin Rendering company for handling garbage and if not so used and expended to be returned to the company, and not having been used for the purpose aforesaid, and whilst he was bailee of said sum, did unlawfully, feloniously and fraudulently steal, take and carry away and fraudulently convert the same to his own use.

The indictment created a profound sensation, as Pfister is one of the wealthiest and most prominent men in Milwaukee, a banker, newspaper owner and identified with many other enterprises.

Pfister to night declares the charge absolutely false. He said eight years ago President Gross of the rendering company did place money in his hands and he used it according to instructions, and that two years ago the balance was paid over on Gross' orders. Others indicted are:

John F. Dittmar, formerly supervisor, bribery.

George F. Reichert, supervisor, fourteen counts, bribery.

Barney A. Eaton, state senator, bribery.

Frank F. Schultz, formerly newspaper reporter, perjury.

Indictments against Reichert and Dettmar allege bribery in connection with county "deals."

Eaton is charged with accepting a bribe in connection with a stationary engineers' bill in the legislature.

To night's batch of indictments makes the total by the present grand jury 138. The jury has taken a recess until Aug. 12.

CHIEF OF BUREAU

Admits He was Partner at One Time in Gelatine Meat Label

St. Paul, Aug. 4.—Although conditions approaching a tieup have not yet developed as a result of the strike of telegraphers on the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads, increasingly serious delays are being caused in moving traffic. To night the effect of the strike is becoming manifest in the movement of passenger trains, which officials by strenuous efforts have been able so far to keep practically on schedule. Information given out at the union depot in St. Paul shows that while nearly all morning trains of both roads were on time, midday and afternoon trains have been coming in at all hours.

Railway officials say that they are taking all freight business offered and will be able to take care of it. Operators, however, are aware of the difficulty with which freight is being moved and predict that when heavy movement of crops begins presently the tieup will be realized. Railway managers say that they are continuing to get men from the union ranks and President Perham of the telegraphers' union declares these statements greatly exaggerated. Numbers of stations are being opened, nevertheless, on both roads, clerks from general offices and other employes besides dispatchers being used. Those who are not telegraphers are assigned to smaller stations to take care of freight and express traffic.

Difficulties in train operation will be greatly increased by orders received to night by conductors and engineers on the two systems. Grand Chief Engineer Stone of the order of railway engineers instructed members of that body to cease assuming any functions of telegraphers, and E. E. Clark, head of the railway conductors, has issued like orders. The telegraphers say that much of the success the roads have had in moving trains is due to aid given by members of these orders.

INDUSTRY AND TRADE IMPROVE

AS CROPS MATURE BETTER OUTLOOK

Fall Business Shows Signs of Expansion—Bank Clearings for July Break all Records for that Month.

New York, Aug. 4.—Bradstreet's trade review says: Trade and industry improve as crops mature. Fall business, while not yet in full swing, shows signs of expansion, and western trade opens a week earlier than last year. Weather conditions have favored crop growth and harvesting and fear of rust damage to spring wheat has disappeared. Corn promises a record yield, and both demand and collections have improved as the result of early wheat crop movement in the southwest.

Midsummer quiet is less than ordinarily manifest this year in trade, industry and financial operations. Bank clearings for July break all records for that month, failures are strikingly few for a normally dull period and railway earnings show porgressive gains on best summers of previous years, with increase of 8 per cent over July, 1904, the fiscal year showing 5 per cent advance in gross and 4 per cent gain in net over the preceding year.

Textile markets all display notable strength. In the northwest trade sentiment is stronger, now that rust damage is no longer feared. In the south Atlantic states and in the industrial centers the feeling is quite cheerful and fall business is loking up. Lake ore traffic in July was in advance of any preceding month in the country's history.

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week were 1,041,000 bushels, against 1,379,000 last year; July 1 to date, 4,374,000, against 6,565,000 last year.

Corn exports for the week were 1,014,000 bushels, against 273,000 a year ago; July 1 to date, 4,758,000, against 2,684,000 in 1904.

DUN'S REPORT.

New York, Aug. 4.—Dun's review of trade says: Business continues to expand in a wholesome manner that promises well for the future. Reports from leading branches of manufacture are unanimous in telling of increasing volume of orders and percentage of idle machinery steadily diminishes. Textile plants make the best returns, closely followed by footwear factories, and some divisions of the steel industry are engaged so far ahead that capacity is extended. Better prospects for crops removes the only handicap that impeded revival of trade and favorable weather for a few weeks will assure unprecedented production in the aggregate. July made almost encouraging exhibit in so far as statistics are available, liabilities of failures being smaller than in any month since April, 1901, and railway earnings surpassing last year's by 9.1 per cent. Foreign trade at this port last week shows gains of $1,770,184 exports and $1,608,504 imports, compared with the same period of 1904. Prices of minor metals have risen still further, selling 6 cents higher than it did a year ago.

Failures this week were 232 in the United States, against 230 last year.

LINEVITCH'S COMMAND.

London, Aug. 4.—The Telegraph's Japanese correspondent at Mojl comments upon the tremendous extent of Linevitch's command, including, as it does, Vladivostok and northern Corea, and doubts the Russian general's ability to have effective control of such a far-extended line, which is unprecedented in the world's history. He declares the coming battle, unless averted by peace negotiations, will be on such agigantic scale as to decide the war once and for all.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—The selection of Thursday for opening the Russo-Japanese peace conference has relieved the minds of many Russians, who feared the conference might begin Monday, which to Mussovites is a day of evil omen. Making Butter Balls.

In making butter balls cut the butter into pieces of equal size convenient for serving. Place them in ice water to chill. When the butter is hard dip the paddles in hot water, then in ice water. Hold a paddle firmly in the left hand and for the butter balls roll each piece with the right paddle until round. If the butter sticks to the paddles it should be chilled longer. The paddles must be kept free from butter by dipping them in hot water, then in ice water.

Squash Puff.

Press dry cooked summer squash through a sieve. To one and one-half pints of squash add two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one-fourth cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper and two beaten egg yolks. Mix thoroughly. Fold in two beaten egg whites and turn into a buttered mold. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in the oven until center is firm. Serve from the mold, accompanied by a rich cream sauce.

Fly Paper Mishaps.

Of course there are bound to be two or three accidents with sticky fly paper in the course of the season. But for such mishaps it is a comfort to know that where all varieties of soap and water, ammonia, alcohol and all cleansers fail, a liberal application of butter dissolves the sticky stuff at once, and it can be washed or wiped off without the slightest effort.

THE GERMANS IN AMERICA

Have Ever Stood for High Ideas in Development of the Commonwealth—Are Home Builders and Law Abiding Citizens

The following paper was read by William Knstrup an a recent meeting of the German-American Republican league:

Of the many elements which make up the national and domestic life of our country none is more important than that which comes from the fatherland of the Rhine. Between Germans and Americans there has ever been a strong bond of fraternal union.

The spirit of religious liberty which arose with Martin Luther and was echoed among the hills of Scotland by John Knox, found its fullest and finest utterance in the pilgrim fathers, who sought in these western wilds a home for freedom in thought and speech. And when the struggle with kingly oppression came that resulted in American independence Germany lent sympathy and a helping hand. The German aided in breaking France's power at Fort Duquesne (Du-Kane), the German fought from the siege of Boston to that of Yorktown, the German endured the sufferings of Valley Forge and the prison ships.

And in the later conflict for freedom against the usurpations of the slave power the German was first to defend the national capital, took the bridge at Antietam and held Cemetery ridge at Gettysburg, stormed Fort Fisher and Fort Stedman, was at Vicksburg and went with Sherman to the sea.

The opening up of the vast western part of America was done by the Germans of Pennsylvania and continued and completed by the masses of German immigrants eagerly following in their footsteps. Others, English, Irish, Scotch, took part in this pioneer work, but the lion's share in the quiet colonizing which laid the foundation of America's wealth must be ascribed to the Germans. Wherever these settlers went they created wealth by their tireless industry, by their skill in cattle raising and farming, so that where an English-speaking farmer starved and was forced to move westward they stayed and dug riches out of the neglected soil. Everywhere they redeemed the barren wilderness and made it blossom as the rose.

It was the Germans who, in 1688, began the struggle against American slavery, the Germans who were the first in this country to engage in the manufacture of iron, of linen, cloth and paper, the first to carry on agriculture and stock raising on really scientific principles, the first to legislate against drunkenness.

The richest man in New York city at the end of the seventeenth century was a German, Jacob Leisler. And there was Johann Peter Zenger, who distinguished himself in his day by fiery utterances against the English. Every German is enthusiastic over Zenger, the apostle of liberty, and some would even claim him, and not George Washington, as the "father of his country."

At the close of the eighteenth century one-half of the population of the United States were Germans.

And now, what are some of the qualities which make the Germans in America rank among our best citizens?

First, they are generally on the right side politically. (We all know which that is!) Coming from a land which, although not without its degree of freedom, is yet under the one-man rule, they appreciate and value the greater liberty of speech to be found here. And their influence, their words and their votes are largely given to the support of the best form of government yet devised. They are thinkers and reasoners, they keep well informed on all great questions of the day and form very decided opinions which they are always prepared to defend with conclusive argument. They are intelligent, independent voters and not to be led blindly at the will of demagogues, or to be bought and sold and delivered like so many head of cattle.

In education the German has always been in the advance. The schools and universities of the fatherland are unsurpassed in breadth and thoroughness. Germany has furnished the world's greatest scholars and thinkers in theology, science, exploration, literature, art and statecraft. In this country the German always takes the deepest interest in the right training of the young and is an advocate of a liberal and comprehensive course of study. Some branches often neglected by Americans are cultivated by the Germans with great care. Among these may especially be mentioned physical education and music. Almost every German community has its turnverein and wherever any number of Germans are found there will surely start up a musical society. A German town without music is unthinkable and the saengerfest has become almost nationalized.

Socially the German is a prince of good fellows—a lover of his kind, generous, open-hearted and sympathetic, fond of lively talk and story telling, appreciative of true comradeship, a faithful and helpful friend in need—he believes in getting the most out of life and in sharing with all around him whatever he has found worth having. Through his love of music he has brought brightness and cheer into the dreary round of daily toil and has kept alive the spirit of good fellowship.

As a workman the German ranks high. He believes in honest, thorough endeavor after the best results in whatever he undertakes. His motto is not "good enough," but "well and truly done." He is no slouch, but gives his whole thought and strength to what he has in hand. Pretense and show find no favor in his eyes—solidity and real worth are what he strives for.

The German is thrifty and provident and rarely becomes a burden on society, nor does he leave his family unprovided for. And he well deserves the reputation of a good, quiet, respectable, peace loving, law abiding citizen. He is seldom speculative, unless it be in philosophy, but is content with immediate gain, not often venturing upon that which is prospective and attended with risk.

As a rule, the German owns his house and grounds. Though it may be humble, yet he is as proud in the possession of his vineclad cottage as the occupant of some more lordly mansion.

In his home life he has those qualities which have given inspiration to the German poets' best songs. His wife is, even in America, the model hausfrau, for "she looketh well to the ways of her household and eateth not the bread of idleness." While she may not in general be a devoted member of half a dozen "women's clubs," or an exalted theorist and apostle of culture, she knows by practice the whole art of home-making and neatness and thrift and cheerfulness ever mark her domain. While the Holy Book tells us that man is not to live by bread alone, yet even the greatest saint cannot deny that good bread is an important element in human happiness and that very often what a man calls spiritual backsliding is really a dyspeptic condition resultant from bad cooking.

In conclusion, the words of a recent writer may be quoted:

"The German can very justly claim to be a most respectable and very desirable element of the American population—he has always stood on the side of solid work and honesty; he has brought skill and energy over the ocean, and he has not forgotten his music and joyfulness; he is second to none in his devotion to the duties of a citizen in peace and war and without his aid many of America's industrial, commercial and technical triumphs would be unknown."

MAKES WORK EASIER

Jacksonville People Are Pleased to Learn How It Is Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties
With a constantly aching back;
With annoying urinary disorders.
Doan's Kidney Pills make work easier.
They cure backache.
They cure every kidney ill.

William T. Gibbons, of 139 East Wolcott street, says: "For a long time off and on I had severe pains through the small of my back, so that frequently I could hardly get up or down, and often in the mornings I had to roll over and take hold of the bed to help myself up. I had so severe an attack that for several days I was laid up and unable to work. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I went to the drug store of Dr. H. Lee Hatch and procured a box. They helped me almost at once, strengthening and relieving my back."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

ILLINOIS ITEMS

BRYAN'S SON ILL.

Chicago—William J. Bryan, Jr., is lying at the Presbyterian hospital here, where he underwent an surgical operation for the removal of an abscess on his right knee brought about by inflammation that began with a corn on his foot. Young Bryan was brought to the hospital yesterday from Winona Lake, Ind., on a fast train. He is a student at a military academy.

The hospital physicians announced that his condition was not dangerous, but that the prompt action in bringing him to Chicago for treatment prevented a serious turn. The young man, who is 16 years old, kept the facts of his condition from his parents and other relatives.

KIDNAPING CASE.

Ava—Ava was the scene of a lively affair Thursday morning which had many of the exciting features of a kidnaping. E. B. Jones, who owns a saw mill near Ava, drove to town Wednesday, bringing with him his 12-year-old daughter. They stopped at a hotel Wednesday night. In the night, unknown to Mr. Jones, his wife, who is not living with him, also arrived in town from Duquoin. She secured lodging for the night at another hotel, having learned the whereabouts of Mr. Jones and the daughter. While Mr. Jones was on the front veranda of the hotel waiting for his daughter to dress his wife gained entrance to the child's room and gathered her in her arms and ran. They then secured a carriage and drove to a neighboring town, where they boarded a train. Mr. Jones did not learn of the kidnaping for an hour or more. As soon as he learned the facts he drove to Duquoin.

CUTTING AFFAIR.

Lincoln—Five cents' worth of innocent looking apples caused a cutting affair in Lincoln Thursday morning in which two men were cut and another man was struck on the head with a brick. Alva Williams and Will Green, two young men, purchased a nickel's worth of apples from William Riley, a peddler. The latter claims the two boys did not pay for the apples, while they claim they did. A dispute arose and Riley went after Williams and Green with a pocket knife. The former was cut on the side and back, the gash being fully a foot long. Green was cut on the wrist. In retaliation the boys hit Riley with a brick. Riley was arrested and fined, although he claimed to have acted in self defense.

CHECK FOR POLICE CHIEF.

Duquoin—Mayor B. W. Pope, on behalf of the United Mine Workers of America, representing 50,000 men, has presented Chief of Police B. V. Cherry of this city with a check for $225. Mr. Cherry was released from the Sangamon county jail at Springfield July 31 after serving a two months' sentence for prosecuting a United States marshal during the Zeigler trouble. The amount presented covers the cost of Mr. Cherry's trial and also reimburses him for the salary he would have received during his imprisonment.

RESCUED FROM MOB.

Chicago—Frank Curry, the St. Louis athlete and famous strike breaker, was Thursday night viciously assaulted and, it is alleged, robbed by Allen C. Loury, a special deputy sheriff, formerly employed with Curry by the Employers' Teaming association. Curry was rescued from a mob of 500 persons, all of whom appeared to desire to stamp him to death. He was badly bruised when rescued by the police. He was struck from behind by Loury, who attempted to escape, but was captured.

CATFISH ARE SCARCE.

Alton—Mississippi river fishermen at Alton say that the catfish has been so scarce this season that there is reason to fear that the Mississippi river species may soon be a rarity. The buffalo is also reported to have become scarce and the fish dealers at Alton and other points up the Mississippi and Illinois rivers declare that they are unable to supply the demand. The German carp seems to be increasing more rapidly than any other kind in the Mississippi, but it does not bring the price of the Mississippi catfish.

VIRGINIA PASTOR.

Virginia—Rev. H. G. McVicker, of New York city, accepts a call to the pastorate of the Cumberland Presbyterian church here, and enters on his new duties Aug. 13.

INSURANCE COMPANY LICENSED

Springfield—State Superintendent of Insurance W. R. Vredenburgh Wednesday licensed to do business in this state the African Order of Foresters, with home offices in Rockford. The organization, as the name implies, is for members of the colored race, but the name will be changed to that of the National Order of Foresters. The order is organized for fraternal and life insurance purposes and will be governed by the same rules under which the various other Forester lodges do business.

FIND HORSE AND BUGGY.

McLeansboro—The horse and buggy belonging to William Jones, who was found dead near Carmi a few days ago, has been found and identified. The buggy, with a broken shaft, was found Wednesday evening in the woods near New Prospect church, in Hamilton county, ten miles southeast of this place. The horse was found in a near by corn field.

INJURED WHILE PLAYING "GHOST"

Urbana—Frightened by his fellow playmates, who pretended that they were "ghosts," a 7-year-old son of Frank Hanley ran to escape the imaginary specters, and crashed into a barb wire fence, breaking a leg and severely cutting his face. A number of stitches were required to sew up the wounds.

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

INSTALLATION OF TEACHER AT THE SALEM LUTHER-AN CHURCH.

A service of special interest will be held at the Salem Lutheran church Sunday morning, the occasion being the installation of the lately called teacher, Prof. J. C. Bruening, who will have charge of the congregation's parochial school. Professor Bruening is a graduate from the Addison Teachers' seminary of the Lutheran synod of Missouri, and other states, having previously graduated from the Gem City Business college at Quincy.

Feeling the want of a teacher for their parochial school, the Salem Lutheran congregation rejoices in being successful in securing Professor Bruening, and looks with new hope to the school, where the children are to be brought up "in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." The school offers a threefold course of instruction to the children. Aside from the chief part of instruction, the knowledge of the essential doctrines of the Christian religion, the children will be taught to read and write the German language and receive an elementary education in all secular branches in the English language. No tuition is charged and the school is open to children of members and non-members of the congregation. The next school term begins on Tuesday after Labor day.

Professor Bruening will make his home with Mr. and Mrs. H. Giesecker, 326 West Morton avenue.

Sunday evening Rev. H. Hallerberg will preach in the English language on "The Right Education for Children," a subject of utmost importance to parents looking for the temporal and spiritual welfare of their children.

ECLIPSE OF THE SUN.

Bloomington Pantagraph: People who wish to catch a glimpse of this year's eclipse of the sun will be compelled to do more than provide themselves with smoked glasses, for by the decree of the heavens those who linger in bed many minutes after sunrise will receive no intimation of the fact that the sun has just emerged from a shadow and that over in Algiers scientific parties from many parts of the world are gathered to make observations on the total eclipse. This eclipse of the sun, which occurs Aug. 30, will be only partially visible here from sunrise at 5:14 o'clock until 6:38, when it completely emerges from the shadow.

The partial eclipse of the moon on the night of Aug. 14th will be visible for over two hours, from 8:47 o'clock until 10:51. The moon eclipse will be visible generally throughout the whole of North and South America, Africa and the Atlantic ocean and in part of Europe, Africa and the Pacific ocean, with the eclipse of the sun, sixteen days later, will be visible to Europe, the north Atlantic ocean, the western part of Asia and the northern half of Africa.

The moon will be at its full diameter on the night of Aug. 14th and the magnitude of the eclipse will be 0.292. The first contact of the shadow will be 46 degree from the moon's limb toward the east.

The Chautauqua assemblies are proving a great adjunct in helping our underpaid public officials earn an honest living.

If the Taggart case assumes large enough proportions the captain may be able to get a few Chautauqua dates.

It turns out that Chauncey had no policy in the Equitable. This may be a huge joke, but the public will hardly be inclined to laugh.

The preliminaries of the peace conference will begin to day, but notwithstanding the elaborate preparations for the ceremony the principal interest continues to center in the end of the conference.

The quiescent state of the Hon. Jeff Davis, governor of Arkansas, continues to be one of the marvels of the day. Perhaps he is waiting to challenge the winner in the Vardaman-Blanchard bout.

The same remedy that wiped out the yellow fever scourge in the sixties is applicable to day. The situation needs a Butler. It is a time for action; the time for exhortation has passed.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

The new Christian church directory has just been issued from the press of Henderson & DePew and is a very creditable production, full of information and interesting data, and enlivened by many half-tones of officials of the church and its various branches. There is a brief, concise sketch of each organization of the church, a very creditable church history and a church directory containing 1,014 names and addresses.

The booklet contains 116 pages and there are twenty-four half-tones between its pages. It is attractively bound and makes a handsome souvenir of the church. The publication was gotten up for the benefit of the Men's league, and much of the credit is due to A. J. Green, president of that organization.

THE YOUNG LAWYER'S PLEA.

Joseph Jefferson used to tell an interesting story of how his father and company were rescued from a distressing predicament in Springfield, Ill. Arriving there they used the last of their funds in building a small theatre. There was a religious revival in town, the leaders of which not only denounced the players, but persuaded the town council to impose a heavy license upon the "unholy calling." All the actors were in despair, when they were visited by a young lawyer, who offered, in the interest of fair play, to have the license fee reduced. He appeared before the council and in an eloquent speech, filled with logic and pathos and interspersed with anecdotes which raised a roar of laughter, won his point. The lawyer was Abraham Lincoln.

THE VALUE OF LAUGHTER.

Chicago Journal: If more women realized the saving grace of laughter there would be fewer tragedies and heart breaks in this world.

If you, dear madam, were able to make your lover laugh you might consider yourself clever indeed. But if you can keep your husband laughing you should be enrolled among the seven wonders of the world.

You see a man's life is usually full of duties and cares that you, possibly, cannot realize. If you could, perhaps you might try to chase the heaviness from the spirit of moodiness from the mein of your best-loved in place of sitting silent and grieved at his want of cheerfulness.

Sometimes you feel that so much merriment may be beneath your dignity. Don't believe it; men often long for the joyous spirit that so charmed them in sweethearting days.

It seems a little thing to provoke laughter, does it not? Somehow you think it hardly within the lines you have drawn for the conduct of a wife.

But it is a saving grace, you may depend; a man rarely reaches a period of life where there is no more of the boy left in his nature; the mischievousness is still there—or, rather, the spirit of it—and you need but give the opportunity to bring it forth, with great benefit to the family generally.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

W. W. Crow Leaves Empl y of Wabash After 23 Years of Ser vice—Alton Makes Change in Recording Freight Tonnage—Items of Interest—Personal Mention.

W. W. Crow, the veteran check clerk at the Wabash freight house, has resigned his position after twenty-three years of continual service. He entered the employ of the road twenty-three years ago as warehouse man, and after serving in this capacity for two years he was promoted to the place of check clerk, which position he has filled continually for the past twenty-one years. He is well known in railroad circles and his many friends will regret to learn that he has given up the business. Mr. Crow was a good railroad man and would have continued with the road had his health permitted. He has entered the employ of Mr. Chatterton as janitor of the theatre section of the opera house block, and will also act as doorkeeper at the gallery entrance. Thomas Brunk succeeded Mr. Crow and entered upon his new duties Aug. 1st.

A reform which has long been agitated among Alton freight conductors regarding the method of keeping track of tonnage of cars and trains, has finally been approved by the officials. The general manager is out with a circular announcing that the new system will go into effect Sunday, Aug. 6th. The change is simple. Instead of recording the three final figures in representing thousands of pounds they will be represented by the letter "M." The sum of the figures left after abandoning the three in thousands is divided by two and this gives the approximate tonnage. A great saving in writing and in figuring will be saved, together with a vast amount of time. The circular which explains the new system was issued by General Manager Goodnow as follows:

"To simplify the present method of recording car and train tonnage and avoid the use of unnecessary figures, it has been decided to adopt an "M" basis, the term "M" being understood to represent 1,000 pounds. Under the system the last three figures will be omitted in entering weights on freight conductors' wheel reports, forms 199, 199a and 199b, and on memorandum way bills, forms 106 and 138. To compensate for weights omitted, where the sum is 500 pounds and less than 1000 pounds count one additional "M." Less than 500 pounds is not to be taken into account."

—(o)—

General Manager Henry Miller, of the Wabash, has issued a circular letter to the heads of all departments on the road instructing them to economize in the use of supplies and giving rules governing requisitions for supplies. He says that the use of printed stationery should be confined entirely to correspondence with the general public and foreign corporations. For any communications addressed to any officer or agent of the company plain manila paper and envelopes should be used. To reduce the number of forms in printed letter heads the use of individual letter heads will be abandoned and a general letter head for each department will be furnished. In case where a local official wishes to designate his name and title otherwise than by the signature a rubber stamp will be furnished. The use of loose postage will be discontinued and stamped envelopes bearing a general return card will be furnished instead. The requisitions of station agents must first receive the O. K. of the traveling auditor and then be approved by the division superintendent. Requisitions of engineers of maintenance of way, master carpenters, roadmasters, trainmasters and chief dispatchers must be approved by the division superintendent. Those of master mechanics must be approved by the superintendent of the locomotive and car department. The requisition of division freight and passenger agents, general agents and foreign agents must be approved by the general freight or passenger agent.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Care of the Complexion.

There are those who are opposed to the use of water on the skin, claiming that it chaps and dries out the cuticle, taking away the natural oils, and makes it more liable to chap and tan. But this is an erroneous idea. Hot water does not injure the skin, but it should be properly prepared.

To every basin of water intended for the complexion put enough powdered borax to soften. And if soap be used there should be at least half a dozen waters for rinsing. Soap left on the face will dry out the skin almost beyond repair. There should be enough to rinse the face until you can tell by the feeling of the skin that the soap is all off.

There is always a choice of soaps. The most careful people use a soap jelly made by themselves out of bits of the best soap. Those who do not want to go to this trouble can take a good shaving soap and use it without fear. There are other fine and perfectly harmless soaps which will do the skin good rather than harm. Shaving soap is sure to be pure, and for this reason many women prefer it to other soaps.

Tomato Chutney.

Take four pounds of firm, ripe tomatoes, a pound of apples, an ounce of crushed mustard seed, half an ounce of grated ginger root, half a dozen small white onions, four ounces of salt, half a teaspoon of cayenne, a pound of brown sugar, pint and a half strong vinegar. Chop the tomatoes and put in a preserve kettle, with the apples sliced, the onions cut up and the vinegar. Set over the fire. When hot add the sugar and other ingredients. Let the whole boil slowly until soft. Take from the fire, rub through a wire sieve and set aside to cool. Stir daily for three or four days. Put in wide neck bottles and seal. This is an excellent and economical sauce for meats, fish and entrees.

Telescoping Bed.

A new phase of the folding bed has just made its appearance. In it, however, no attempt is made to disguise the bed's character, but the economy of room usually urged as one of the principal merits of the folding contrivance is attained through a novel arrangement of the framework. The device is known as an extension bedstead. It consists of two nested sections, one having four legs and the other having two legs. A drop bar is secured to the legless side of one section to insure stability when the extension is in use. The two sections are combined by the use of pairs of toggle links. The design permits the use of woven wire springs, and the mattresses could be made in sections and when the extension was closed the corresponding mattress could be folded up on top of the other one and the bed dressed as usual. If desired, the bed during the daytime could be disguised as a box couch or divan.

EXTENSION BEDSTEAD.

BURGLAR KILLED

SHOT BY POLICE CAPTAIN KENNEDY WHILE IN PRICE'S JEWELRY STORE

Entrance Effected by Breaking Glass in Window—Refused to Surrender—Identity Unknown—Officer Exonerated by Coroner's Jury—Story by Dr Duncan.

An unknown negro was shot and instantly killed by Captain Kennedy of the night force of the city police Friday morning about 3:30 o'clock, while the said negro was in the act of burglarizing the jewelry store of Charles Price on East State street. He had gained an entrance to the building through a side window near the rear, and after looting the showcases was evidently in the act of leaving when he was discovered. He refused to throw up his hands when ordered to do so, and reached under his coat as if to draw a weapon when Captain Kennedy fired the shot that ended his life. The act was strictly in the line of duty of the officer and the coroner's jury not only exonerated him from all blame, but commended the officer for "his vigilance in the discharge of his duties.".

The burglary was evidently planned by two men or more, whom Dr. Duncan, who lives over the store, heard conversing in the rear of the building shortly before the man was apprehended. No trace of the accomplice of the dead man has been found.

POLICE NOTIFIED.

The matter was first brought to the attention of the police about 3 o'clock or perhaps a little later by John Troy, who notified Policeman Murgatroyd on the north side of the square that he thought he heard the sound of breaking glass east of the square, probably on East State street. Mr. Troy had been to Draper's restaurant, but found that closed, and was returning along the north side of the square when he heard the crash of glass. He was about in front of McGinnis' shoe store when he heard the noise, and meeting Murgatroyd at the corner of North Main street, told him about it. Murgatroyd went at once to East State street, trying to discover where the glass had been broken. He stopped in front of the jewelry store, where he stood for several minutes. Thinking he heard the sound of footsteps on the inside, he went around to the east side of the building and there discovered the broken glass. He again heard some one moving about in the room, and ran silently to the corner of the square for help. His whistle was answered by Captain Kennedy, who was at the Farrell bank conversing with Jerry Sweeney, the merchant policeman. Captain Kennedy at once started in the direction he thought the whistle came from—the northeast corner of the square. He was there told that the call was from East State street, and he turned in that direction.

Murgatroyd had in the meantime run back to the store and had taken his stand at the corner of the alley. When Kennedy came up he told him the circumstances and together they went to the broken window and looked in, Captain Kennedy thrusting his head and arm, holding his revolver, into the window. He could see nothing at first, but a moment later the man rose up suddenly from behind the work bench, which is immediately inside the window, only the upper portion of his body showing above the bench.

ORDERED HANDS UP.

Captain Kennedy ordered "hands up," but instead of obeying the man reached into his clothes, as if to draw a gun, and Kennedy fired. The burglar dropped at once out of sight, and the officers, not knowing whether the bullet had struck its mark or not, broke in the side door, as both it and the front door were locked. As soon as an entrance was gained the officers began a search for the man, whom they finally found lying near the front of the store, behind the counter, dead. The bullet had taken effect in his chest, just above the heart and a little to the right side. He had crawled from the rear of the store after having been shot, and the floor for this distance was reeking with blood.

Mr. Price was notified of the occurrence, and also Mr. Gillham, the undertaker. Upon the arrival of Mr. Gillham the body was searched and from inside the man's shirt were taken thirty-one watches, three watch chains, three rings and fourteen lockets, to the total value of about $200. There was also a book on his person, bearing the names of Ed Ford, of St. Louis, and Peter Johnson.

STORY OF DR. DUNCAN.

Dr. W. P. Duncan, who has his office and rooms above the jewelry store, was awakened shortly before 3 o'clock Friday morning, by two men talking in the rear of the building, and heard the whole proceedings. Drunken men sometimes get into the area way behind the store and are unable to find their way out, so, Mr. Duncan paid no attention to the occurrence, but lay awake and listened. The two persons moved about considerably and talked in a low tone of voice for some time. As Mr. Duncan listened he heard steps which he recognized as those of Isaac Hicks, the merchant policeman, coming up the alley from the north, and died away in the distance as he passed around the corner to East State street and went toward the square. While Mr. Hicks was passing by the sounds in the rear ceased, and this at once aroused Dr. Duncan's suspicions. He started to get up to call the police, when he heard the steps of the men in the alley. He then paused to listen, and heard a low call in the voice of a negro. Following soon upon this was the sound of breaking glass. As he did not hear the glass fall upon the pavement, and the sound was so distinct, he imagined that the men had mounted the stairs to his office and had broken in the transom, as the sound was as though the glass had fallen upon a rug. He then heard steps which sounded as though they might be in his office, and sounds as if some one was going through his desk. He decided that the wisest plan to follow was to remain in his room and be ready for them if they came in, as there was no one else in the apartments, and he did not wish to attack two men single handed.

Soon afterward he heard a police call and answer, and the sound of somebody running toward the building on State street. Soon there was a muffled command, followed by the report of a pistol, and he went down to see what the trouble was. He had heard the steps of but one man after the glass was broken, and heard nothing further of his companion.

Mr. Hicks, after passing through the alley, went west on State street and through the square to the postoffice. As he passed through the park, Captain Kennedy and Jerry Sweeney, who were sitting at the Farrell corner, saw a strange negro who appeared to be following him and Captain Kennedy was just starting to question the man when he was called by Murgatroyd's whistle. It is thought by the police that this man was the accomplice of the other, and was watching Mr. Hicks to keep the coast clear. Upon the alarm being given he made his escape.

REMAINS OF BURGLAR.

The remains of the dead man were removed to Gillham's undertaking establishment, where the inquest was held by Coroner Spencer about 8 o'clock. The jury was made up of F. L. Sharpe, foreman; Sylvester Arbuckle, T. Crouse, W. M. Triplett, T. F. Leetch and G. F. Campbell, clerk. After hearing the testimony of Charles Price, 'Squire Divers, Jerry Sweeney, Richard Murgatroyd and Captain Kennedy, they returned as their verdict that the unknown negro came to his death from a gunshot wound from the hands of Captain Kennedy "while acting in the discharge of his duties, and we, the jury, both exonerate him from any criminal intent and commend him for his vigilance in the discharge of his duties."

IDENTITY UNKNOWN.

Every effort has been made to identify the man, thus far without success. Hundreds thronged the undertaking parlors of Mr. Gillham during the day to view the remains, but none recognized the man. Squire Divers testified that the stranger came to this city from Springfield on the same train with him, Aug. 2, and that he had shown him to a colored lunch room and to Dealey's saloon. He was positive that the man was the same. Others thought that they had met him on the street Wednesday or Thursday, but no one could positively identify him, except a colored barber by the name of O'Brien, of Shelbyville, formerly of this city. He identified the man as George Swaby, formerly of Louisiana, Mo. He formerly knew Swaby in Louisiana, but the family moved from that city to Shelbyville a number of years ago, and George Swaby had been lost track of until about a year ago, when he saw him in Shelbyville. He told O'Brien at that time that he was from Chicago. He was in a crap game with others and tried to sell one of the players a diamond ring for $15. There were no marks upon his person by which his identification might be established. He was about 5 feet 9 inches in height and was probably 35 years old. He was evidently suffering with pulmonary tuberculosis, as one of his lungs was considerably affected. It is not known at this time whether the identification of the remains by Mr. O'Brien is correct or not, nor what disposition will be made of the body.

The articles which the dead man had taken were displayed in the show window of Mr. Price's store yesterday and attracted much attention.

CONDITION UNCHANGED.

H. C. Williams, the man taken in charge by the police Wednesday night while suffering a complete lapse of memory, is still being cared for at Our Savior's hospital, and his condition remains unchanged. It is understood that he belongs to a prominent family of his home town, who have been communicated with, and who will have him cared for in this city for the present, at least.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Billy Kersand and his famous Georgia minstrels opened the season at the Grand Friday evening. There was a fair sized audience present and the performance was received with hearty favor.

The company has a number of fine voices and the solo work and quartet singing was of a high order.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A Spoonful of Fun.

From Germany, the land of whole hearted jollity, comes the first, called "a spoonful of fun."

The players form a circle, holding hands, and one is placed in the center, blindfolded. He holds in his hand a large spoon as a wand.

Music is now played or all may sing in chorus, and the ring moves around with the music. Suddenly the music stops, and so do the players, and then the blindfolded player in the center gropes about with his spoon until he touches some one in the ring, who must then stand perfectly still.

The blindfolded one now touches the other here and there with his spoon, trying by his deftness to discern who it is that he has "caught." If the spoon holder guesses correctly the "caught" player takes his place in the center of the ring and the play goes on in the same way.

Of course all the players try to disguise themselves in some way, some standing on tiptoe to appear taller, others crouching down so as not to betray themselves by their height, for you will be amazed to find how easy it becomes to distinguish a person merely by touching him with a spoon.

The boys can put their handkerchiefs over their collars and turn forward the lapels of their coats, so that their shirt fronts will not betray them. Of course the object of those in the ring is to confuse and puzzle the spoon holder.

How Navajoes Catch Prairie Dogs.

Although living almost wholly on game, the Navajoes cannot be prevailed upon to taste either fish or rabbit, but the Indian who would fight to death sooner than touch a delicious rabbit stew is greedily fond of the fat and querulous prairie dog. That whole region abounds in "dog towns," and they are frequently besieged by their swarthy foes, says Golden Days.

A Navajo will stick a bit of mirror in the entrance of a burrow and lie behind the little mound all day, if need be, to secure the coveted prize. When the prairie dog ventures from his bedroom, deep underground, he sees a familiar image mocking him at the door, and when he hurries out to confront this impudent intruder—whiz goes a chalcedony tipped arrow through him, pinning him to the ground so that he cannot tumble back into his home, as he has a wonderful faculty for doing even in death, or a dark hand darts quickly out, seizes his chunky neck safely beyond the reach of his chisel shaped teeth and breaks his spine with one snap.

The Snake and the Skunk.

A New Hampshire version of an old fable runs that a skunk and a rattlesnake one day met each other and stopped to swap news and gossip. "I heard a horrid story about you the other night," remarked the serpent.

"Huh," was the skunk's reply, "I dare say I've heard it myself—I've heard enough of them, anyhow. I'm tired of being painted worse than I am. I intend at the next general convention of beasts to introduce a motion that all persons found guilty of telling lies about any of us shall be attacked and killed. Will you support me?"

"In a minute!" cried rattler. "The truth is bad enough without adding falsehood to it."

The Spirit of Courtesy.

A little girl named Bessie is told of in Everybody's Magazine. The child had had impressed on her the propriety of thanking every one who did her a kindness and also of how much we owe the various farm animals. One day at dinner she looked at her egg for some moments without eating it and then slipped quietly from her chair.

"Where are you going?" her mother asked.

"I'm going to thank Mr. Wooster for laying me dis nice egg," was the answer.

Caractacus.

Caractacus was chief of a tribe of ancient Britons. He lived on the river Severn, in Wales. He fought the Romans nine years, but was taken prisoner and sent to Rome. When he saw the grand streets and stately buildings he said, "How can people who have such magnificence at home envy me my poor cottage in Britain?" The emperor pardoned him and sent him home with presents.

Why Not?

"Say, ma, baby cut his teeth, didn't he?"

"Yes, dear."

"Why can't he cut his hair, then?"—Browning's Magazine.

The Influence of Dress.

When Flora puts her school dress on (It's such a pretty red),
With that small frock she seems to don
The very wisest head.
She'll learn and learn and learn and learn
To spell and read and count in turn.
It really seems, I must confess,
As if there's magic in that dress.

When Flora wears her play day gown
(It's just the sweetest plaid),
There's scarce a child in all the town
Has spirits half as glad.
She plays and plays and plays and plays—
She'd like to play all night, she says.
So can you wonder that we guess
There must be magic in that dress?

When Flora wears her party frock
(The pale blue silk, you know),
You ought to see her watch the clock
Until 'tis time to go.
And then her manners are so grand!
It's really hard to understand,
And so it seems, I must confess,
As if there's magic in that dress.

Suppose that play day plaid should go
By some mistake to school.
Then would our playful little Flo
Break every single rule?
Would the red frock on Saturday
Make her too studious to play?
I really hope, I must confess,
She'll always wear the proper dress.

A. G. Barry, the amateur golf champion of Great Britain, is to visit America soon to try his skill against that of our leading cracks.

Barry made a great sensation when he won the title early in the summer at Prestwick, Scotland. He is but nineteen years old and a schoolboy, yet he defeated the experienced veterans with ease.

The American star, Walter J. Travis, it will be remembered, won the amateur championship of Great Britain last year.

Points For Wrestlers.

There are certain fundamental principles which all wrestlers should observe. The beginner should early learn to follow them, so as to form habits of correctness that he will not swerve from in an exciting moment when his mind is centered on what he considers more important details.

First, the mat performer should keep his hands clinched when on all fours. If he rests his hands flat on the carpet his opponent will be able to seize one or two fingers and by twisting them force his arm into a dangerous position, or he may dislocate one of the comparatively weak finger joints. So keep your hands clinched.

Again, be careful how an opponent grasps your wrist. He may secure a firm hold and twist your arm up over your back into a hammer lock, etc.

Do not take your eyes from an opponent for a single instant. If he catches you unawares, even for a second or two, your doom may be sealed.

Do not release a hold on a man when you think you have secured a fall. Wait until the referee notifies you.

Do not be overconfident.

Do not be careless.

Do not "play horse" with a man you consider an inferior. He may surprise you any moment. Go in to win and win as speedily as possible.

If a man roughs or punishes you severely with malicious intent call the referee's attention to it.

Ball Writers May Lose Laurels.

Visitors to this country are frequently impressed by the nomenclature of our baseball scribes. They read of "bingles," "benders," "south paws," of "three suckers" and players "dying at first," and ask for explanations. The palm for versatility generally has been conceded to the men who write the sport of the diamond, but they must look to their laurels if the following extract from an English paper can be taken as the standard of "cricket as she is now wrote:"

Archie's initial manipulation was a "cow shot" off the left handed representative of the Tyke county, but he was defeated all ends up by a "snorter," which came up with a pronounced swish. Tyldesley followed and ought to have been "pouched" after offering a "sitter" at right angles to his lordship. He "ballooned" Rhodes to the leg extremity, but in trying another "skyscraper" was "trundled out" with a "fizzer" from the stalwart Haigh. The latter spheroid propeller upset Hallow's equilibrium and uprooted his timber yard with the subsequent globule, which was more of a "googly" than a "swimmer." The willow wielder was thus out for a "lunar body" —or "moon," as last year's Cambridge university captain so aptly put it—and forthwith the rabbit hutch opened.

Just what the "fizzer," the "googly" and the "swimmer" are like we cannot state, but they look good. Word painting of this description enlivens even a cricket match.

Laird's Long Drives.

Young Laird, the Canadian boy golfer, who is a student at Princeton, is one of the longest drivers in the amateur ranks. They have a hole at Princeton 270 yards long, with a bunker 240 yards from the tee, and Laird has a record of carrying this twice in succession.

The Mashie-Niblick.

A good many amateur golfers are taking quite a fancy to the mashie-niblick. As its name implies, the club is useful for approaching or getting out of long grass or bunkers.

Malachi Ought to Know.

Malachi Kittredge says that the Washington team plays better ball on the road than at home on account of the peculiar weather in the capital in the summer months.

Jimmy Sebring.

Jimmy Sebring once more threatens to jump Cincinnati for the Independent Williamsport club and Garry Herrmann threatens to enjoin him, a la Lajoie, if he does.

A NATURAL RESULT.

It is reasonable to suppose if the foundation of a structure gives way, the building is bound to come down. This principle can be applied to disease. Take medicine that will remove the cause of sickness, and a cure is sure to follow. Dyspepsia, indigestion, sick-headache and biliousness, their foundation is stomach disorders. Remove this weakness and the other symptoms are no more. There is one cure druggists sell for 25c per box. It is Dr. Gunn's Improved Liver Pills. One for a dose. They make the cure by taking away the cause. Write to Dr. Bonsako Co., Philadelphia, Pa. Sold by Lee P. Allcott.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Wheat—The market opened a trifle easier, the result of selling of pit traders induced by clear weather in the northwest. Sentiment soon became bullish and for the remainder of the session firm tone prevailed. Offical forecast of rain to night and to morrow in Minnesota and South Dakota started an upturn. Decreased receipts in the southwest gave additional encouragement to bulls. Fresh reports of damage in the northwest were a further bullish factor. The market closed firm, September up ⅝c.

Corn—A feature of trading was liquidation of a line estimated at a million bushels by a prominent holder. The market was extremely weak the entire session. Weather favorable for the crop was an influential bear factor. Large shipments from Argentine helped to weaken values. The market closed practically at the lowest point of the day. September was off 1⅛@1¼c.

Oats—Prices declined ⅛@⅝c and closed with losses of ⅜@⅝c. Trading was good, a feature being cover to take off hedges by northwest. Shorts were good buyers of May. Cash houses were good sellers.

FINANCIAL MARKET.

New York, Aug. 4.—The exchange had quite a lively hour following the opening to day and the market showed more consistency and strength during that period than at any time during the week. Good effect was produced by the fact such substantial market leaders as Union Pacific and St. Paul were full participants in the movement to the exclusion of some less influential specialties which ave made so much of the market's prominence on recent days, but the effort to carry prices higher seemed to have exhausted itself with the spurt and later trading reverted to the class of specialties which may be moved with much less expenditure of effort. Closing quotations:

Shrewd Jabez Crowfutt

[Original.]

Jabez Crowfutt prided himself on his shrewdness. It has been said that genius is unconscious—that is, if one has an especial gift he is unconscious of it, whereas if he thinks he possesses a gift he is usually mistaken. At any rate, Jabez considered his faculty for making shrewd deals so pronounced that he left his wife to do all the work on his little farm while he traded in horseflesh, cattle and such live stock as farmers use. All the money that was made came from the woman's efforts.

One summer evening Jabez was smoking his pipe on his stoop when a man drove up in a buggy and asked if he could be accommodated with a supper and a bed for the night. Jabez was about to turn him away when he noticed that the horse he drove was built for speed. He at once conceived the idea of getting the animal into his possession by trading the poorest horse in his barn for it and acceded to the stranger's request. During the evening he pumped the owner of the animal to discover if he was aware of its value. The man did not appear to put much value on his horse, and Jabez thought if he could keep him in the house long enough he might make the trade.

Jabez had no difficulty in persuading the stranger to remain over a day, and, for the matter of that, he showed no disposition to depart at the end of a week or a month or six months. He was all this time making up his mind whether he wished to swap horses. Then Jabez told him to make up his mind or get out, whereupon the stranger swapped horses without any "to boot," and Jabez was delighted. The horse he gave was not worth $50, while the one he received he finally sold for $500. This fine bargain, the only one Jabez ever made, confirmed him in the opinion that he was a born trader.

One day the stranger told Jabez that he was staying in the region for his health; that he had been greatly benefited and proposed to remain indefinitely. If Jabez would let him build a small house on his premises he would pay a fine rental and turn over his house to Jabez without cost on his departure. Jabez was delighted. The stranger asked him to fix his own rental, and Jabez named an enormous price considering that in a short time he was to have the building. The lessee consented at once.

Jabez supposed that as soon as the lease was signed the building would go up, but by the terms the lessor was entitled to put his structure wherever he pleased on Jabez's property. He spent several weeks making up his mind, then astonished Jabez by choosing a spot which included the well. The well was about ten feet in the rear of Jabez's dwelling, and the new structure would be disagreeably close, shutting off all light from the rear windows. Jabez protested, whereupon the lessor, instead of claiming his right under his lease, offered a handsome bonus, which satisfied Jabez and gave him great confidence in the way he managed his affairs; also a certainty that the stranger was either crazy or a fool.

With the final payment, lumber began to arrive and a structure to go up over the well house. There were few windows and none in position where any one in the old house could look into the new one. This made the architectural effect peculiar. In due time the building was finished and the stranger moved in. After that he stayed at home a great deal. Jabez wondered what he was doing in his house and one day condescended to ask his wife what she thought about it. She replied that the stranger had paid enough to do what he liked. Then one day Jabez noticed a crack in his wall, but when he called his wife's attention to it she made light of it. Finally the hearthstone, which had lain on the ground in the same position for forty years, showed signs of sinking. Then Jabez began to suspect something was wrong.

After noticing this last peculiarity Jabez looked for the stranger to come out of his house to ask him some questions. But the stranger did not come out. Jabez waited three days, then, thinking the man might have died, told his wife that he proposed to open the door and investigate. The wife told him that he had best do so by all means. Jabez went into the new house and found it filled with dirt. In the middle was the well out of which the dirt appeared to have come. Jabez looked down and saw that there was no water. In some way it had either been turned off or the flow stopped altogether. Jabez ran for a ladder and, putting it down, descended and found a tunnel running toward his house. Going through it, he came to an excavation upward. Then he understood the settling of the hearth. Going back, he told his wife of the wonderful discovery he had made.

She burst out laughing.

As soon as the good woman could control her mirth she made the following confession: She had suspected the stranger from the first and had at last charged him with some especial design. He told her that if she would preserve secrecy and not stand in his way he would make her fortune. Upon her agreement to do so he had imparted to her that somewhere on the premises, which had once belonged to a miser, was hidden a large sum of money. She had permitted him to get it in his own way, he agreeing to divide it with her.

At this point in her recital Mrs. Crowfutt took her husband to a closet and opened a trunk, and Jabez saw that it was full of money.

When buying loose coffee or anything your grocer happens to have in his bin, how do you know what you are getting? Some queer stories about coffee that is sold in bulk, could be told, if the people who handle it (grocers), cared to speak out.

Could any amount of more talk have persuaded millions of housekeepers to use

ANTE-NUPTIAL FUNCTION.

The last of the ante-nuptial events to be given for Miss Bertha Anderson, was the function by Miss Ruth Widenham at her home at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. The occasion was in honor of the ladies who are to be members of the Marsh-Anderson wedding party and for them the hostess served an elaborate six course luncheon.

The house decorations were unique and most tasteful in design. The center piece on the dining room table consisted of a large white lace plant and trailing from this to each guest's plate was maiden hair fern, while about the room there was a profusion of pink sweet peas. Golden glow was used in the hall and the other rooms were handsomely decorated with sweet peas and potted plants.

Following the delightful luncheon Miss Anderson presented to each member of her wedding party a handsome gold brooch, the design being a lily and set with pearls and opals. To her maid of honor, Miss Clara Belle Anderson, she presented a "love" bracelet.

Those who were present and who will compose the wedding party, were Mrs. John G. Reynolds, Miss Mary Tanner, Miss Ruth Widenham, Miss Elizabeth Mathers, Miss Lena Marsh of Upper Alton and Miss Clara Belle Anderson.
